

Dr. Antonios Kireopoulos

Associate General Secretary

Dr. Antonios Kireopoulos is Associate General Secretary at the National Council of Churches USA (2003-present), where he directs both Faith & Order and Interreligious Relations & Collaboration. An Orthodox Christian theologian, he previously directed, and continues to contribute to, the Council's work in international affairs. Formerly, he was the Executive Director of Religions for Peace USA (1999-2003), Special Assistant to the Archbishop of the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of America (1995-1999), and Assistant to the Chancellor of the Orthodox Church in America (1993-1999). He holds degrees from Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service, Thunderbird School of Global Management, St. Vladimir's Orthodox Theological Seminary, and Fordham University.

www.nationalcouncilofchurches.us